Youth Day 2025 was a vibrant and meaningful celebration held in collaboration with NUS Freshmen from the First-year Orientation Collaborative Community Involvement Project (FOCCIP) team.

Students raced through daily routines in the “Woody and Buzz Routine Race,” building teamwork and confidence in life skills while having fun.

Students took on the roles of doctors and patients to identify symptoms, read medicine labels, and practise responding to common illnesses.

Andy's Supply Quest challenged participants to use coins and notes accurately, helping them build confidence in budgeting, price comparison, and handling change.

The programme featured a series of engaging station-based activities across four zones, focusing on values such as empathy, environmental care, healthy living and personal responsibility.

Secondary 3 and 4 students stepped up to lead the Secondary 1 and 2 students in completing the activities, while NUS volunteers designed and facilitated the games and learning experiences, reinforcing community partnership and peer leadership.

Navigating The Slinky Obstacle Course required teamwork, coordination, and focus to move through without dropping the Slinky or touching barriers.

Students raced against the clock at the Infinity Sorting station, testing their aim and teamwork while learning how to sort recyclables into the correct bins.

Students spread kindness through acts like compliments and high-fives, marking off their Buddy Bingo cards with thoughtful gestures.
